

Diana Horvath Bio

Diana Horvath (Miss Diana) has studied dance since the age of three and has over 40 years teaching experience.

Diana was a dance studio owner for over 25 years. She is currently on the board of directors for the Ohio Chapter of Dance Masters of America and manages their yearly scholarship competition.

Diana has choreographed countless recitals and competitive routines. She choreographed the tap numbers in "Singin' in The Rain" for the Strongsville Middle School. She is currently the Tap Choreographer for the Cleveland Dance Project Season 6.5. In addition, Diana has judged various dance competitions and auditions.

Diana is certified to teach Tap, Jazz, Ballet, and Acrobatics from Dance Masters of America. She continues her training each summer by taking Master Classes. In the past she has taken master classes with such notables as Sandman Sims and Savion Glover for Tap, Stepp Stewart, Steven Boyd, Bob Rizzo for Jazz, and Rennie Davis for Hip-Hop. Diana has a BA degree from Cleveland State University and performed in college showcases.

Diana's desire is to keep Tap relevant and fun.
